CONCLUSION:

We have taken enough care to make our project more user friendly as interactive. We hope that the system should be useful to all the users. Looking back towards the experiences that we have achieved during such phase make us remember the curve that is seen through which we went during the development of our project.

Now when such systems stand completed, we have place ourselves at a much higher place in the field of knowledge. We have given our best for its development as it is the first system undertaken by us it may contain some mistakes but we as the developers of the system have done our best to provide an error free system to our users and hope the success of our system.
